RECENTLY,
HANG-GANG'S
BOYS GOING THROUGH A LITTLE TRO-UBLE

TEACHER! MING-JING'S LOOKING AT A PLAYBOY MAG!

Teacher's Office

HEP! MY POP!CICLE!

SETTLE DOWN.

AND HIS OWN
FINDS HIMSELF IN TROUBLE YET AGAIN

X For the rest of the incident,
see chapters 3 and 4.

JIN! WHAT DO YOU WANT FOR YOUR SPECIAL DAY?

THERE WERE A
LOT OF GIRLS
WHO WANTED ME
TO GIVE YOU
THESE LOVE LETTERS.

I JUST TOLD THEM YOU AL-READY HAVE SAID THIS.

YOU WANT TO HEAR YOUR MAM-
MA'S BIRTHDAY PARTY, RIGHT?

OUR PAR-ENTS WON'T
DO IT.

BROTHER,
YOU'VE ALREADY BEEN ACKNOW-LEDGED.

BUT THAT'S...

LOOK! SPEAK OF THE DEVIL.

"AND? YOU
FORGOT TO TAKE YOUR MED-ICINE AGAIN?"

AND SO, ANOTHER TROUBLE AROSE.

Literally speaking, the phrase 花叢 refers to a gathering, or 叢, of flowers, 花. In Chinese culture, girls are viewed as flowers, so an adult magazine would be a 'gathering of flowers.' Incidentally, 花花公子 is the actual Chinese translation of 'Playboy,' so I just went with that.

3829's Translation Notes

Literally speaking, 霸道總裁, which I translated as "domineering type," means "aggressive CEO," which is a term that actually arose in order to describe Christian Grey with the huge success of Fifty Shades of Grey in China.

3829's Translation Notes

This is the same kanji used in "Fujoshi" in Japanese, which literally means "rotten woman/girl." It's used to describe girls who are into BL, or Boys' Love, relationships between two males.
